

Forum Fun with computers Capturing webpages to PDF

Meadowview at Mountain House

Now Selling from the low $600s

KHovnanian Homes
Khov.com/nocal

+ Reply to Thread

Results 1 to 2 of 2

Thread: Capturing webpages to PDF

Like Sign Up to see what your friends like.

Thread Tools Administrative Search Thread Rate This Thread Display Inline Mod

Yesterday, 08:03 PM #1

Steve A.

Supporting Member

Join Date: May 2006

Posts: 4,380

Thumbs Up/Down

Received: 23/0

Given: 21/0

Capturing webpages to PDF

It was twenty years ago that I first bought the retail version of Adobe Acrobat* and proceeded to convert all of the articles*on my Blue Guitar website into PDF format. They had been in HTML 2.0 format which required that any included image files be located in the same folder. With the PDF format all of the necessary files could be compiled into a single file.

I also used the retail version of Acrobat to convert webpages into PDF files to save their content at a particular time forever – very important*to me as unscrupulous websites could edit them to rewrite history so to speak.* On a less serious note I would save some of the humorous eBay listings like Elian's Air Guitar and Robert Johnson's Soul as well as Rip Glitter's reviews on Harmony Central, the Onion article on manic-depressive Tom Rusek and the now-famous Scandinavian collection of Amp Porn pictures***...

ebay\_air\_guitar.pdf

robert\_johnson's\_soul\_on\_ebay.pdf

rip\_glitter.pdf

onion\_manic\_depressive.pdf

amp\_porn.pdf

Here is a link of more files in the Blue Guitar humor folder...

<http://www.blueguitar.org/new/misc/humor/>

Alas, my fun and games with the retail version of Adobe Acrobat ended when I upgraded to Windows 7 which did not support the versions I had been using.

Well I finally found a really cool Android app for converting webpages into PDF files. It has its own browser which allows you to sign in to websites and will capture a scrolling image of a webpage which can be split up into pages of different sizes, like letter and legal plus quite a few more. Using my ASUS Z380M running Android 7.0.1 I can then select which pages to include to create very compact PDF files.

The app is called Web Page Capture and I have zipped two APKs, versions 1.0.6 & 1.0.8, and attached them below. Although the Play Store listing says no ads when you click one of the two action buttons, Capture Image or Save as PDF, an ad will pop up which you can just click away with the back button. After following these instructions sometimes the Android version of the hourglass will keep spinning around without stopping. When that happens try scrolling down to the bottom of the page; if you can then proceed to the next step... it should work okay.

Check to see that the created PDF is in the default folder (typically "Download.") There should also be a saved copy of the scrolling image file in the 0/Pictures/Web Page Capture folder that you can delete if you wish. Depending on how pictures on the webpage get split in two I might try saving in both Letter and Legal paper size and keep the one which works better. If you can get WPC to display the proposed pages and deselect the unneeded ones, even better. (That works on my ASUS but not my Samsung tablet.)

com.pak.logix.webpagecapture.zip

Steve A.

P.S. After using these tablets for 3+ years I finally figured out that the Samsung Tab 4 7.0 has the native ability to create PDF files from webpages under the Print tab of the 3 dot/"hamburger" menu in Chrome, at least when using the factory installed version 40.x.x

P.P.S. Nitro for Windows offers a lot of bang per buck compared to the 800 lb chicken, er, gorilla, Adobe Acrobat but it lacks many of the features I lived about their version 7.1.

*** For awhile the Amp Porn PDF file was the most downloaded file on The Blue Guitar with most users logged on from the Scandanavian countries...

0

Last edited by Steve A.; Yesterday at 08:36 PM.

The Blue Guitar

www.blueguitar.org

Some recordings:

<http://soundcloud.com/sssteeve/sets/...e-blue-guitar/>

Edit Post

Reply

Reply With Quote

Yesterday, 10:51 PM

#2

big_tee

ToneOholic!

Join Date: Jun 2010

Location: Mid-South USA

Posts: 10,074

Thumbs Up/Down

Received: 40/21

Given: 58/9

With linux and firefox, you just print to file.
You specify the file as a pdf file.
Here's an example.

Attached Files

webpageprint.pdf (4.52 MB, 4 views)

0

"When you find yourself in a hole, quit digging." WILL ROGERS

Keep Rockin! B_T
Terry

Edit Post

Reply

Reply With Quote

▼ Moderation Tools (0)

+ Reply to Thread

Quick Navigation

▼ Fun with computers

Top

« Previous Thread | Next Thread »

Thread Information

There are currently 1 users browsing this thread. (1 members and 0 guests)

Steve A.*

Similar Threads

Why go all PDF links give me...

By TimmyP1955 in forum Maintenance, Troubleshooting & Repair

Replies: 4

Last Post: 07-11-2014, 06:42 PM

Cannot View PDF Files

By Jazz P Bass in forum Lobby

Replies: 82

Last Post: 07-02-2013, 03:43 PM

Marshall G50PCD.pdf

Replies: 0